Turks Grasp Britain's Friendly Hand

—M. SARAJOGLU

WARM declarations of friendship for Britain marked a speech by M. Sarajoglu, Turkish Prime Minister, in the Turkish Parliament yesterday.

Announcing the new Government's programme, he said:

"Since the Adana Conference we have got to know Mr. Churchill more intimately and to love him the better. Everywhere we find the outstretched hands of British statesmen, with Mr. Churchill at their heads. We listen to the cordial words of these statesmen. The House of Lords was yesterday the scene of yet another manifestation of this friendship.

"Our friends, the British, may rest assured that we cordially grasp these outstretched hands; that we regard the sincere word coming from London as the echo of our own words to London.

"Anglo-Turkish friendship is not only dictated by mutual interests, but also by the vital needs of both countries.

"Our policy towards, and our relations with, Allied and friendly Powers has been laid down by the treaties existing among us. Our Ministry of Foreign Affairs, backed both by the foresight of the President and by a strong army, has obtained very brilliant results. It will continue to safeguard Turkish territory, as well as the rights and interests of the Turkish people."—(Reuter.)

General Franco On Spain's New Era

General Franco, speaking yesterday at the formal opening of the new Spanish Cortes, said:

"With our victory a new era arrived for Spain, and now, after a long chain of toil and sacrifices, a decisive stage in the new order is reached."

He dealt with the rôle of the Cortes, saying: "With this Cortes the collaboration of the people in the tasks of the State is initiated."

This means the introduction of the popular conception in the administration. The popular interest is represented by the Procurators (Members of the Cortes).

"On to a better Fatherland, to one great Spain. Proclaiming my faith in Spain and her future, I greet you, Procurators, with the words: 'Spain, arise.'"—(Reuter.)

General Franco told the Cortes that the world war had changed with the entry of Russia, and the fight had become a "war-to-the-death" of six or eight years duration.

He added: "No one dreams now of a short war, nor of a peace of a hundred years."

The Polish Government in London announced yesterday that Professor Stanislaw Stronski, the Polish Minister of Information, has resigned his office.

"Axis Powers Henceforth on the Defensive"

THE Japanese merchant fleet has lost an estimated 1,857,000 gross tons—or approximately one-third of its entire tonnage—Colonel Knox, United States Secretary of the Navy, disclosed in a St. Patrick's Day speech yesterday. Promising that from now on the Axis would be on the defensive, he praised the "Englishmen and women who did not know when they were whopped," and whose "great will kept their chins up until they could harness their industry and forge new weapons to protect themselves."

"It is no secret that our purpose is to destroy the Japanese Navy," he said.

"Beyond the great decisions of the Casablanca Conference with another inspired leader, Winston Churchill, the very news of his visit was a tonic to the persecuted peoples of all Europe, and a guarantee that, together with all decent people who have banded as the United Nations, we are promising them liberation and a peace that we intend to make lasting."

Recalling that many Americans looked upon Britain's cause as lost when France collapsed, Colonel Knox declared: "A miracle occurred in England, as amazing as that taking place in the United States. Our security in this country, our opportunity for the future, we owe in great measure to Englishmen and women, who did not know when they were whipped."—(Reuter.)

Second Front Policy

Viscount Cranborne (Lord Privy Seal), observing that there was nothing so dangerous as premature attack, told Lord Beaverbrook in the House of Lords yesterday: "The question of a second front in Europe is equally in the minds of the Prime Minister, President Roosevelt and all those distinguished officers responsible for our strategy. Our policy in this respect was made perfectly clear after the Casablanca conference."

"I beg him," added Lord Cranborne, "to leave these matters to those whose responsibility it is, both at home and on the spot, and not to raise unfounded suspicion in the minds of the Russian people. They can only tend to impair the good relations between the two countries, to which I know he is so sincerely attached."

Mr. De Valera on Uncompleted National Tasks

"RESTORE LANGUAGE" PLEA

IN his St. Patrick's Day broadcast from Radio Eireann last night, Mr. de Valera said the country's greatest uncompleted national tasks were restoration of the unity of the national territory and restoration of the language.

He appealed to the people to devote this year especially to revival of the language.

Mr. de Valera alluded briefly to "the physical dangers" that threaten and the need for unceasing vigilance in defence.

"Our Ireland of Dreams"

Remarking that before the present war began it was his custom on St. Patrick's Day to speak to their kinsfolk in foreign lands, especially the United States, Mr. de Valera said they were all acutely conscious of the misery and desolation in which the greater part of the world was plunged.

On this occasion he asked them to turn aside for a moment to the ideal Ireland that they would have, the Ireland they had dreamed of, where wealth was valued only as a basis of right living, and a people were satisfied with frugal comfort and devoted their leisure to the things of the spirit.

It would, in a word, be the home of a people living the life that God desired men should live. With the tidings that make such an Ireland, St. Patrick came to their ancestors 1,500 years ago, promising happiness here as well as hereafter. It was the pursuit of such an Ireland that later made their country worthy to be called the Island of Saints and Scholars.

Mr. de Valera talking to members of the Committee at the U.C.D. Ceilidhe, held in Dublin Castle last night.

PATRIOTS' SACRIFICE

The same idea fired the imagination of their poets, and made successive generations of patriotic men give their lives to win political and religious liberty, and that would urge men in their own and future generations to die, if need be, that these liberties might be preserved. One hundred years ago the Young Irelanders inspired the nation, fifty years ago the Gaelic League similarly inspired them, as did the leaders of the Volunteers. Thomas Davis, laying down the national programme, stressed the development of the national resources, and, more important, the development of the resources of the spirit.

The national language, said Mr. de Valera, was the chief mark of their distinct nationality. It was for them what no other language could be. It was not a mere symbol, but an essential part of their nationhood. As a vehicle of three thousand years of history the language was for them precious beyond measure.

"The restoration of the unity of the national territory and the restoration of the language are the greatest of our uncompleted national tasks. Let us devote this year especially to the restoration of the language; let the year be one in which the need for this restoration will be constantly in our thoughts and the language itself as much as possible on our lips.

"The physical dangers that threaten, and the need for unceasing vigilance in the matters of defence as well as unremitting attention to the serious day-to-day problems that the war has brought upon us should not cause us to neglect our duty to the language. Time is running against us in this matter of the language. We cannot affords to postpone our effort.

"For my part, I believe that this outstanding mark of our nationhood can be preserved and made forever safe by this generation. I am indeed certain of it, but I know that it cannot be saved without understanding and co-operation and effort and sacrifice.

"It would be wrong to minimise the difficulties. They are not light. The task of restoring the language as the everyday speech of our people is a task as great as any nation ever undertook. But it is a noble task. Other nations have succeeded in it, though in their case when the effort was begun, their national language was probably more widely spoken among their people than is ours with us. As long as the language lives, however, on the lips of the people as their natural speech in any substantial part of this land we are assured of success if—if we are in earnest.

PERSONAL APPEAL

"It is a task in which the attitude of the individual is what counts most. It is upon the individual citizen, upon you who are listening to me that the restoration of the language finally depends. The State and public institutions can do much to assist, but if the individual has not the inclination or the will-power to make the serious efforts initially required, or to persevere till reasonable fluency is attained, outside aids will be of little use."

See-Saw Battle on Donetz: Germans Held, But Not Stopped

DOGGEDLY fighting back from the line of the Donetz River, the Red Army has slowed, but not yet halted, the Germans' counter-offensive, according to despatches from the front last night, says Reuter's Special Correspondent in Moscow.

A desperate see-saw struggle is now raging along the river below Kharkov, where every effort of the Germans to force a crossing has so far been frustrated. Fortified places are changing hands several times a day.

In some sectors the Russians are beginning to wrest the initiative from the Germans. They have retained a number of bridgeheads on the western bank of the Donetz, which they are now striving to enlarge. The Izyum "elbow," where Red Army men hold a number of commanding heights, is being firmly defended. Red Star reported yesterday that bitter fighting is going on at the approaches to one big town, where the Germans are attacking with over 60 tanks at a time. All their attempts to break through to the town have so far been beaten back.

Despatches from the front yesterday speak of fierce fighting west of Syevsk, 80 miles north-west of Kursk, where the Russians drove a deep salient into the German defences some weeks ago. In one sector the Germans wedged into the Russian lines, but in a short bitter battle they were encircled and wiped out.

On the Smolensk front the Germans are still retreating westward under the pressure of General Konieve's armies. Stiff resistance has been encountered at some points, but German counter-attacks have failed to halt their advance. Konieve's men strengthened their hold during Tuesday night on the north-south branch railway from Nikitinka to Durovo with the capture of Ugoryevskoe. This station is some 60 miles north-east of Smolensk and only 25 miles north of Durovo, vital junction on the main Vyazma-Smolensk line.

FUEHRER IN RUSSIA

Herr Hitler has arrived by air on the South Russian front to confer with his generals, said German Radio last night.

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

Last night's Soviet communiqué states:—

"During March 17th our troops engaged the enemy in the same directions as before."

The supplement states.—"On the western front our troops, repelling infantry and tank attacks, continued to develop their offensive, occupying several inhabited localities. In the battle for one place which our troops later captured, about 500 enemy officers and men were killed. Ten guns and other war material were captured.

In the area of Chuguyev our troops drove the Germans back and occupied favourable positions. The Germans launched six counter-attacks, but without any success. Our gunners crippled and burnt out 19 German tanks, 90 lorries and four guns, and wiped out about two battalions of German infantry.

DUBLIN'S JOYOUS FESTIVAL

NEVER on any previous St. Patrick's Day were Dublin's streets, public transport vehicles, hotels, restaurants, and places of amusement so busy as they were yesterday. Despite restricted train and 'bus services, the town seemed full of visitors, with North of Ireland people predominating. At the doors of restaurants and of hotel dining and grill rooms people queued up for meals for the greater part of the day. Waiters and other attendants had scarcely a moment's respite while they were on duty, and only the good humour that St. Patrick's day generates could have kept them all so patient and tactful in dealing with the incessant stream of questions and orders. Dublin's reduced public transport service was taxed to the utmost as enormous crowds spread themselves over the different sporting attractions of the day. Among these, the Dog Show at Ballsbridge and the Rugby Senior Cup matches had the advantage of being served by trams, and thus were comparatively easy of access. It was otherwise with people going to Baldoyle Races.

Every available hack was pressed into service, and even at an average charge of £2 per vehicle for the six miles and back the supply was inadequate. To get to and from the other popular venues, Dalymount Park and Croke Park, thousands of people walked. Cinemas were well attended, and all the theatres were booked out by lunch time. Although 'buses stopped early, as usual, the crowds lingered in the places of entertainment and restaurants till a late hour.

As a symbol of the showy Army parades of other years, Dublin saw the more modest parades of L.D.F. and L.S.F. units. At Portobello Barracks there were about 800 L.D.F. men on parade, under Commandant W. Kelly, for a special Mass celebrated by the Rev. R. J. Casey, senior C.F. Shamrock was distributed by members of the Ladies' Comforts Committee.

CHURCH SERVICES

The Church of Ireland Services in Dublin yesterday were attended by large congregations. In St. Patrick's Cathedral there was a Gaelic Service at 9 a.m., arranged by the Irish Guild of the Church, and conducted by the Rev. Paul Quigley.

In addition to the usual Services, there was Holy Communion at 8 and 11 o'clock.

The Dean (the Very Rev. D. F. R. Wilson) showed large parties around the Cathedral during the day, and teams of the Irish Association of Change Ringers rang peals in the Cathedral belfry, which is one of the finest in Great Britain and Ireland, and contains a peal of fourteen bells.

At the afternoon Service the music was by Irish composers. "St. Patrick's Breastplate" was sung and an address was given by Canon Leslie, D.Litt.

In accordance with ancient custom, the Friendly Brothers of St. Patrick attended. The club, the oldest of Dublin social clubs, was founded in the eighteenth century to put down duelling.

There was morning Service in Christ Church Cathedral and Holy Communion in the Lady Chapel.

Under the auspices of the Irish Guild of the Church, there was a Service in Irish in St. Andrew's Church, Suffolk street, in the morning. The preacher was the Rev. A. T. McNutt, Curate of Harold's Cross Parish Church.

PRO-CATHEDRAL

An Taoiseach and members of the Government were present at Solemn High Mass celebrated in the Pro-Cathedral, Dublin, yesterday, at which the Archbishop of Dublin, the most Rev. Dr. J. C. McQuaid, presided. The sermon on St. Patrick was preached in Irish by the Rev. D. Fitzmaurice, O.P., and the music of the Mass sung by the Palestrina Choir, under the direction of Dr. Vincent O'Brien. Members of the Metropolitan Chapter were present.

First Lord on Letter to Mr. Wells

MR. A. V. ALEXANDER, British First Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Commons yesterday, vigorously denied that there is any complacency at the Admiralty regarding the anti-U-boat war.

Answering allegations by Mr. Clement Davies (Liberal) he said:—"There is a complete absence of complacency in our naval work. The situation is too serious, engrossing every day and every night . . . ."

Mr. Alexander said that mention had been made of attacks upon him by Mr. H. G. Wells in a newspaper article regarding the helicopter autogiro. "I wrote to Mr. Wells a letter marked 'secret' in January, 1941, in reply to a letter from him, and he wrote saying he had burned it. But he quoted part of that letter in his article last Sunday probably from memory."

Mr. H. G. Wells yesterday told a Press Association reporter that when he wrote the article mentioned by Mr. Alexander the thought uppermost in his mind was the loss of thousands of seamen's lives in The U-boat war. This, he felt, justified any possible breach of confidence.

British Naval Vessel Lost

A British Admiralty communiqué last night states: "The Board of Admiralty regrets to announce that the auxiliary vessel, H.M.S. Fidelity, has been lost.

CARDINAL HINSLEY.

DEATH OF CARDINAL HINSLEY

HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL HINSLEY, Archbishop of Westminster, whose death occurred at 7.30 yesterday morning at his country home, Hare Street House, Buntingford, Herts., was aged 77.

Although the Cardinal had been ill for some weeks, his death came unexpectedly. The only persons at his bedside were the two nuns of the Little Companions of Mary, who had been in continual attendance on him recently. The Cardinal had been in no pain at the end.

Monsignor Bickford, of St. Edmund's College, Weer, was summoned to the death-bed, and Mass was said.

Solemn Requiem Mass in Westminster Cathedral on Monday next will be sung by the Archbishop-Bishop of Southwark, Dr. Amigo, with His Grace the Apostolic Delegate, the Archbishop Godfrey, assisting at the throne.

It is understood that the funeral will take place on Monday next.

HIS CAREER

Arthur Cardinal Hinsley was born near Selby, August 25, 1865, the son of a village carpenter, and his wife, Miss Bridget Ryan, a native of Tuam, County Galway. He won a scholarship to Ushaw College, Durham. He studied at the English College, Rome, where he was ordained in 1893. He took the B.A. degree of London University in 1889, and was also a Doctor of Divinity of the Gregorian University. He went to Ushaw College as a Professor on his ordination staying there until 1897, when he went to Bradford. Here he took an interest in secondary education, and became the first Headmaster of St. Bede's Grammar School.

In 1911 he became Rector of the Church of St. Philip Neri, Sydenham, and for many years was confidential adviser to the Bishop of Southwark, Dr. Amigo. Just before the last war Dr. Amigo sent him on a tour of Germany, and he was almost caught when hostilities broke out. He was in Silvertown at the time of the great war-time explosion, and worked among the injured.

In 1917 he was called to Rome as Rector of the English College, an office he held for ten years. During his term he was appointed successively Domestic Prelate to the Pope, Titular Bishop of Sebastopol, and Titular Archbishop of Sardes. It was in 1926 that the Pope appointed him Apostolic Visitor to African Missions in British territory. He was also to co-operate with the British Government on its reform of native education. In one year he covered 50,000 miles. When, in 1930, he was appointed Apostolic Delegate to Africa he had control over 9,000,000 square miles, stretching across the Continent, and from the Cape to the Sudan.

CANON OF ST. PETER'S

After three years of arduous work he had a severe attack of paratyphoid, and in May, 1934, he petitioned the Pope to relieve him of his task. On his return to Rome he was appointed a Canon of St. Peter's, being the only English member of that Chapter.

Cardinal Hinsley was a champion of the native peoples of Africa, for whom he had a great affection. At the time of the Abyssinian War he was very outspoken. "Once more," he said, "Africa is invaded by Europeans for the greed of possession and gold."

Although it was very rare for a Canon of St. Peter's to re-emerge into responsible office, he was appointed Archbishop of Westminster Cathedral on April 29, 1935. Two and a half years later he was given the Cardinal's red hat. A crowd of 10,000 met him at Victoria on his return from Rome after receiving this honour.

A few months after his enthronement he met a deputation of Catholic trade union officials and Labour representatives, and told them that the Catholic Church did not oppose the Labour movement in Britain, and that he had consistently urged that Catholic workers should be members of their trade unions. He added that the Communist and the Fascist Parties were to be condemned, and that Catholics should not work in them.

It is possible that a new Cardinal will not be created until after the war.

DR. TEMPLE'S TRIBUTE

The Archbishop of Canterbury in a broadcast tribute last night said: "He was a most devoted citizen, and the note of patriotism in his speeches was always clear and strong. But he was convinced that his best service to his country was to help it to follow faithfully that natural law which is the law of God for His creation. In this he was eager to co-operate with other Christians, whether or not they were of his communion. He has served nobly the cause of co-operation in Christian witness of this kind. All whose aspirations are set upon a Christian Britain mourn his loss; many of us also mourn a most kindly and warmhearted friend."

The Moderator of the Free Church Council (Rev. Dr. J. S. Whale) in his broadcast tribute to the Cardinal said that there was a warm humanity, a moral directness, a fine Christian simplicity about him which made itself felt far beyond the bounds of his own communion. His sympathies were truly Catholic, springing as they did out of reverence for that Divine Law which knows no bounds or frontiers, and in which alone men find peace . . . Heirs of a different ecclesiastical tradition from his own, thank God for every remembrance of him."

THE CHIEF RABBI

Addressing the students of the Jews' College yesterday, the Chief Rabbi, Dr. J. H. Hertz, also paid tribute to the Cardinal.

8th Army Starts Attack on Mareth Line, Says Berlin

THE British Eighth Army has launched an attack on the Mareth Line, the German News Agency reported yesterday.

"The scale of the fighting cannot be judged by reports so far available, but Berlin military quarters believe that this is a major attack," the Agency added. Heavy fighting must, therefore, be expected.

The British thrust was made at the coastal end of the Mareth Line at 10.30 p.m. on Tuesday, according to Berlin, following a lively artillery barrage, which increased towards evening until it became a "veritable cannonade."

"Using Big Force"

The German News Agency message says that "considerable forces" of the 8th Army were engaged in the attack.

"This attack," the Agency added, "is possibly the initial phase of a large-scale offensive.

"The British batteries opened a barrage of fire on positions defending the Axis tank army. After extensive artillery preparation, the British units launched an attack on a wide front against the approaches to the Mareth positions.

"German and Italian forces, generally speaking, were able to maintain their positions. It is, however, assumed that the British attack will be continued and increased in strength. Operations so far show that yesterday only a part of General Montgomery's artillery went into action.

"Everything points to the fact that yesterday's attack was aimed at obtaining full information concerning the grouping and fighting strength of the German-Italian tank army in the Mareth positions."

DIVISIONS NAMED

Before the Mareth positions, Berlin said, the following British forces have been assembled:—The 51st Division, with three infantry and one tank brigade, and the 7th Tank Division.

Behind them, "to serve as a second wave," were assembled the 50th British Division and the 2nd New Zealand Division, "which comprise together four infantry brigades and two tank brigades."

In addition, General Montgomery was stated to have one tank division as a reserve attacking force at his disposal. "Moreover, the 8th Army has, in the past few days, considerably strengthened the British units assembled in the area of Ksar Rhilane. Only yesterday more truckborne forces arrived there."

Captain Sertorius, the German commentator, said last night:

"If the Eighth Army has really begun its big offensive it must be assumed that the British First Army and American Fifth Army will not remain inactive for long.

"In Central Tunisia strong concentrations of American troops have in the past few days been observed near positions in the Axis-held passes."—(Reuter.)

SUPPLY LINE CUT

Axis forces south of Sfax, on the south Tunisian coast, have been temporarily deprived of their supply line from the north following the cutting of the railway by Allied bombers, says Reuter. The line has been broken between Sfax and its terminus at Gabes.

Further west the Germans' hold on Gafsa, on the railway to Sfax, is being threatened by American troops, who have closed in and contacted Axis tanks three miles north of the town. This new pressure is helping to draw a half circle round the garrison already meeting the French thrust from Metlaoui, 20 miles to the south-west.

The attack on the supply lines linking the forces of Marshal Rommel and General von Arnim coincided with an onslaught on a convoy, caught by Fortresses on the Sicily-Tunisia run. It consisted of six or seven motor barges. Three were left in flames.

In the northern coastal belt heavy rain is flooding the mountain roads, bringing activities almost to a standstill, except for patrol work.

De Gaulle "Off To See Giraud"

A statement made yesterday by the French National Committee says that it is expected General de Gaulle will shortly leave for Algiers, "in view of the fortunate trend which events in North Africa have now taken."

Last night Algiers Radio said de Gaulle was already on his way to Algiers.

General Giraud, it was later announced, has issued decrees repealing sixty-two discriminatory Vichy laws against Jews and restoring elective municipal assemblies, according to an Algiers despatch to the Associated Press of America.

Mr. Winston Churchill made a statement in the British House of Commons yesterday warmly welcoming Giraud's speech and the de Gaulle memorandum. "It now appears," said the Premier, "that no question of principle divided the two bodies of Frenchmen."

The U.S. State Department has also welcomed the Giraud statement.—(P.A. and Reuter.)

Waterford Shooting

Two Arrests

WILLIAM O'SHEA (23), husband of the woman who was shot in Cappoquin on Tuesday, and Thomas White (17), were charged jointly with conspiring to murder, and with the murder of, Mrs. O'Shea, at a special court in Cappoquin yesterday, before Mr. J. P. Kellaher, P.C.

A remand in custody to Youghal Court on Friday next was granted. Supt. P. J. Doyle, Lismore, made the application for the remand.

Only 5 Japanese of 15,000 Escaped

Only five out of 15,000 Japanese escaped death or capture in the convoy battle of the Bismarck Sea on March 2, Mr. Elmer Davis, head of the Office of War Information, said yesterday in Washington.

He denied Japanese claims that the United States had suffered severe naval losses in the South Pacific.

The Board of Directors of J. P. Morgan and Co., Inc., yesterday elected Mr. Thomas W. Lamont Chairman of the Board, in succession to the late Mr. J. P. Morgan.—(Reuter.)

ACID "FUR"

Detect it this way

Try this now. Run your tongue round your mouth—do you notice it . . . a rough woolly feeling? That's acid fur, staining and spoiling your teeth; acid fur the hidden enemy which starts decay.

RID TEETH OF ACID FUR

Many things you eat cause acid to form in the mouth and acid fur is the result. To get rid of this acid fur, you must use an antacid toothpaste. 12,000 dentists know that the most effective antacid is 'Milk of Magnesia'. They recommend their patients to use Phillips' Dental Magnesia, the only toothpaste containing 'Milk of Magnesia'. Rid your teeth of acid fur before it ruins them. Get a tube of Phillips' Dental Magnesia and use it night and morning.

Sold everywhere 7½d., 1/1d. and 1/10½.

Phillips' Dental Magnesia

THE LOGICAL TREATMENT OF RHEUMATISM

Many persons taking 'Milk of Magnesia' for acid stomach find to their joy, that the rheumatism from which they suffered has also disappeared. This is explained by the fact that most rheumatic afflictions are caused by excess uric acid, which is neutralized by the antacid action of 'Milk of Magnesia.'

If you are racked with pain and crippled by rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica or gout, it is due to excess uric acid in your system. Correct this by taking 'Milk of Magnesia' daily. It is the ideal antacid for regular use. It will alkalise and sweeten your system. Double for J. Brogan

THERE was an enormous crowd at Baldoyle, where the racing was up to the usual high standard. Prince Blackthorn gave further proof of his gameness when, after leading to the last fence in the Baldoyle 'Chase, he was headed by Sir Sen, and then put in a grand effort to score readily by a length.

The first batch of two-year-olds that appeared in the Howth Plate were well advanced in condition, and Mr. J. McLean's First Swallow, who got the best of a close finish with Cenotaph and Magic Link, won very cleverly. He was bred by Mr. W. J. Mitchell at the Collinstown Stud, where his sire, Furrokh Siyar, stands. There was another close finish for the St. Patrick's 'Chase, Canoodle getting the better of Kellsboro' Lady in the last hundred yards.

Father Knapp made all the running in the Kinsealy Plate, and Astrometer gave J. Brogan, Prince Blackthorn's jockey, a second winning ride in the Dublin Hurdle. Sen's Pride looked like winning the Hunters' 'Chase until he collided with a riderless horse and fell on the flat, leaving the way clear for Lady Cashmond.

MUNSTER ... 4-3 LEINSTER ... 3-5

All records were broken at Croke Park in yesterday's Railway Cup finals for attendance, enthusiasm, and playing standards hit a new peak. It was late rallies by Munster in hurling and Ulster in football that pulled down Leinster's lead to win by narrowest of margins.

The Kilkenny-Dublin hurlers gave a surprising display. After O'Donnell's opening goal for Munster, Langton banged a free to the net, and soon had Leinster well ahead with a further point and goal.

Hurling continued fast in the second half. The Munster captain, J. Lynch, starred at midfield and pointed; Ring had another, but Langton crashed a point over for Leinster. Then came a brilliant individual run by John Power, who whipped a balancing goal through, and Walsh and Langton recovered the lead for Leinster. Munster rallied, Quirke and Power crashed grand goals through, and Ring had the winning point.

ULSTER ...... 3-7 LEINSTER 2-9

Banks and O'Reilly and Banks and McCarney exchanged points, and Armstrong put Ulster in front. Then came a grand goal by Matt Gilsenan from Bermingham's drive. Ulster opened a passing movement and Murray swerved through to place Gallagher for a goal. Delaney and Murphy pointed for Leinster. Half-time:—Leinster 1-4, Ulster 1-3.

Teams were level when Al Murray ran from half-way and swerved right through for a brilliant point. Delaney and Maguire kept scores level, and Leinster had a strong session, Banks and Gilsenan pointing only for Murray to break away and place Gallagher for a goal. Banks took the ball in its flight to goal for Leinster, who forged ahead per Bermingham and Delaney. Then came Ulster's grand rally. McCarney pointed and Ulster drew level for the fifth time, when Maguire goaled for the North. Al Murray finished a great hour with a swerving run for the winning point.

The attendance was 25,170, and the gate receipts £1,302.

PORTRANE FAIL IN HOCKEY CUP FINAL

PEMBROKE W. 2 PORTRANE....... 0

At Londonbridge road yesterday Pembroke Wanderers deserved their success in the Mills Cup final. They combined much better, and were far more dangerous in attack, where O'Keeffe and Martin excelled. The winners had a strong half-back line, in which Dove played a real captain's part. The backs were rather uncertain, and on occasions Kearns had to leave his goal to clear.

Both goals came in the first half, O'Keeffe and V. Raby scoring. Portrane forced at least eight penalty corners, but failed to get in a shot.

Railway Cup Final—Y.M.C.A. 2nd 2, Postal Services 1, after extra time.

Tontonvilla Fails

Rarely has a bigger crowd been seen at Limerick than was the case yesterday. W. O'Grady had great hopes of winning three of the events, but the only one of his to score was Fiery Element, favourite for the Limerick Plate. Border Knight was not going too well when he came to grief in the Munster National, and at the fence at which he fell Tontonvilla made such a bad mistake that his chance for the Greenpark 'Chase was ruined.

The latter race was won by Knight's Crest, and the "National" by Multy Duck after Yeoman had looked like scoring. Toyette had an easy victory in the O'Donnell 'Chase, as also had the outsiders, Happy Larry and Avon King, in their races.

Easily Won Rugby Ties

DUBLIN University and Old Belvedere advanced to the second round of the Leinster Senior Cup at Lansdowne road yesterday, when they beat Curragh Command and Wanderers respectively. In the next stage Dublin University will meet St. Mary's, and Belvedere play the winners of to-day's Lansdowne-Clontarf tie.

BELVEDERE .. 19 WANDERERS ... 3

Producing the brand of Rugby of which no other Dublin team seems capable in a cup tie, Old Belvedere beat Wanderers by 4 goals (2 dropped, 1 penalty) and 1 try to a penalty goal, and on this form they seem very likely to retain the trophy for the fourth year in succession.

Wanderers were absolutely outplayed by a side that did almost everything correctly. When the Old Belvedere backs got moving the passing was long and accurate from the scrum-half to the wings, when no opening presented itself, dropped goals were coolly taken. The forwards played their part in getting the ball back from the scrums and by following up with speed and determination. At full-back Thorpe was as sound as usual in his work.

Early on Old Belvedere secured what was obviously going to be an unassailable lead. F. Quinn dropped a goal; B. Quinn got a splendid try, in which the short kick ahead was accomplished to perfection twice, and then G. Quinn, picking up in the loose, dropped another goal. A penalty kick in front of the posts gave Aird the opportunity of putting his team 14 points up at the interval. Early in the second half Robertson kicked a penalty goal for Wanderers, but Old Belvedere replied with another clever try, G. Quinn sending out a long pass to McNelis on the left-wing, who went over, Aird converting from near the touch-line.

DUBLIN U. ... 34 CURRAGH...... 6

Playing good, combined Rugby, Dublin University had no difficulty in disposing of Curragh Command. With their forwards getting possession and heeling quickly from both set and loose scrums, the backs were too fast for the opposition, and handled too accurately to be stopped, even by some earnest defence by the Army men. S. D. Walsh, in contrast to some of his recent displays, passed with judgment after making ground, and the game may have served a very useful purpose for Trinity. The Curragh backs had few ideas in attack, but the forwards were useful in the loose.

Lydon gave Curragh the lead with a penalty goal in the first few minutes, but Walsh, McCaw, Marshall and Harrison crossed for Trinity in the first half, Barnes converting the first two tries. In the second half Marshall (2), McCaw and Walsh put on further tries by good handling and running, Barnes converting three. Coffey got a try for the Curragh in a forward rush leaving the final score 5 goals and 3 tries to a penalty goal and a try.

Lucky Goal For The North

N.I. LEAGUE 1
LEAGUE OF IRELAND 0

The result was more than a disappointment for the crowd that packed Dalymount Park yesterday. After a goalless first half, the League of Ireland completely mastered the visitors, and on the run of the play should have been a few goals to the good before, with five minutes to go, the Northerners swept through, and Walker, deceiving first E. Noonan and then Matier, shot across the goal-mouth. The ball hit the post and bounced in for the luckiest of winning scores.

For the first twenty minutes the Regional League played excellently, combining with much effect; so, indeed, did the home team, but the only forward of the ten who had a good hard shot in him was Coad. In fact, the reputations of a few forwards on both sides received a nasty set-back.

Indeed, the whole Northern line disappointed, so much so that even Cochrane could be described as a failure. But our visitors had a brilliant goalkeeper in Breen, two classic backs in Bowler and Fulton, and an ideal centre-half in Vernon.

Fulton completely tied up Barlowe, the Southern right-wing, who had one of the poorest games of his brilliant career, with the result that Coad also suffered. McNamara rarely had his foot at the ball concentrating on "head-work" most of the time, and it was only in the second half that Farrell and McDonald figured with prominence.

It was fortunate for the League of Ireland that the visitors' halves favoured so much their left wing, Walker and McAlinden, for R. Noonan was often as not a second centre-half, seldom being in the left-half position, and leaving wide open gaps. Doherty and Leathem were sturdy defenders, and were ably supported by Noonan and Olphert, the latter of whom on his display is certain to be retained for the return game at Belfast on Easter Monday. Matier took a few risks in goal, but got away with it, and, on the whole, his display was a finished one.

The attendance was approximately 28,000, and the receipts £1,500.

NORTH V. SOUTH DATES

The dates for the North v. South tournament were arranged yesterday in Dublin as follows (the dates for the matches in Dublin are given first):—

St. James's Gate v. Derry City—April 28, April 30.

Shelbourne v. Glentoran—May 1, May 7.

Cork United v. Belfast Celtic—May 3, May 1.

Bohemians v. Distillery—May 8, May 10.

Linfield v. Shamrock Rovers—May 5, May 8.

Dundalk v. Cliftonville—May 10, May 3.

FRED HORLACHER DEAD

The death occurred yesterday morning at the Meath Hospital of Mr. Freddy Horlacher, the noted Bohemian footballer, who only a few weeks ago retired from active participation in the game, which he played for Bohemians for 16 years. An all-round athlete, he gained distinction also at swimming and lawn tennis, and was first reserve for Ireland in the water polo team at the Olympic Games in Belgium. He was one of the team that won the Leinster Water Polo Senior League six seasons in succession. He also won an Irish Cup medal. In the Liffey swimming race he finished 3rd, 5th, 7th and 11th, and was second in the pier race at Dun Laoghaire and in the mile championship.

Five persons, condemned for looting houses left empty after R.A.F. raids on Turin, were executed yesterday, says Rome radio. Fifteen others were given sentences ranging from two to 30 years.—(Reuter.)

Brisker Honey Market

HAVING spent the winter in slumbrous content, fed to the eyes with sugar, specially allowed for them, Irish bees are expected to provide the country with a record supply of honey this season.

There will be a greater number of bee-keepers this year than ever, and many people are taking up bee-keeping in order to have honey for domestic purposes, apart from commercial production. On the marketing side the sugar shortage has given the industry a strong fillip, and medicinal products and biscuit manufacture will be demanding increasing quantities.

In 1938-39 there were about 18,000 stocks of bees in the twenty-six counties, and it is likely that the figure now has risen to 20,000, which will produce over 200,000 lbs. of honey. After a mild winter, which improves the prospects of a good season, the bees now are bestirring themselves, but premature examination is fraught with danger, and extra feeding is essential if they are to be preserved against starvation.

The recently-formed County Dublin Bee-Keepers' Association has up to 100 members, and Mr. R. N. Tweedy, Dun Laoghaire, who was largely instrumental in its formation, told the Irish Times yesterday that there has been an extraordinary development in appreciating the part that honey can play in the household, and that large numbers of fresh enthusiasts are taking on stocks of bees. The scarcity of foundation will be a difficulty, he said, and the bees will have to work harder, but they can be helped considerably by devices which overcome foundation troubles.

With the sudden burst of domestic bee-keeping, it is advisable to warn people, Mr. Tweedy said, that this is a very dangerous spring, and the bees are active before there is any real nectar flow in gadens. Bee-keepers should ensure that they are well stocked with food now, or they may starve.

Value of Assurance Industry

Remarking that the industry with which they were concerned was of great importance to the community, Alderman P. S. Doyle, T.D., Lord Mayor of Dublin, opened yesterday at the Mansion House the fourth annual convention of the Industrial and Life Assurance Agents Union of Ireland. Co-operative effort must play an important part in all industries if the work and everyday life of the nation was to be preserved from the chaos which would undoubtedly follow the present war, said the Lord Mayor. There should, therefore, be close collaboration between those who controlled the major portion of the assurance industry in this country and those whose livelihood depended on its proper development.

The President, Mr. J. P. Hayes, Cork, said that since the last convention their membership had increased to nearly 1,200.

Mr. P. Crowley, general secretary, in his report, said that the amount necessary to be deposited under the Trade Union Act had been over-subscribed, which had enabled them to lay aside a considerable reserve for contingencies. There were now 62 branches in widely separated parts of the country.

State Aid for the Blind?

State aid for the blind is suggested by Mr. Joseph Brown, Hon. Sec., Outdoor Blind Persons' Association. Is it not possible, he asks, for the State to provide education for blind children from 5 to 16 years old, in comfortable surroundings, by competent teachers, and to provide employment for the blind who are capable of it, and to make adequate provision for those who are not? He urges vigorous measures to prevent blindness, housing facilities for sightless people and their dependents and the abolition of the means test.

Good Time to Float New Loan?

EXPERIENCE in the Dublin Stock Markets is very similar from day to day just now. Moderate business is enjoyed, and values, on the whole, are strongly held.

Already many are casting anxious thoughts towards the forthcoming Budget. Additional revenue will be necessary in the next financial year, and no relief from existing taxation can be expected.

It is understood that there will be no new Government Loan until after the elections, but there is a lot to be said in favour of borrowing now while conditions remain favourable. It is not too much to expect that a fairly long loan could be successfully floated at slightly under 3 p.c. Large idle bank balances have accumulated, and alternative outlets for the investment of savings are few and far between.

Buying of Home Industrials has been rather selective. Of some interest has been the Drapery group, which has been helped by encouraging company announcements, such as Arnott's, Switzer's and Todd Burns.

Railway stocks are still uncertain, though Great Southern issues are well above the low levels touched after the annual meeting. Stockholders will not be satisfied until full details of the proposed reorganisation of the company are announced.

Since dividend prospects on all but the Debenture Stock seem very remote, it is strange that the Ordinary Stock should have a market value of 9¼, while the Debenture stands at 55. The Preference and Guaranteed issues also seem too high in relation to the Debenture Stock.

There has been a good demand for G.N.R. issues, particularly the Preference, which is being bought with a view to capital appreciation and dividends.

Guinness £1 Ordinary units, invariably regarded as one of the market leaders, have slipped back to 118s. for no apparent reason. The current year's interim dividend has been maintained at 11 p.c., and, should the year's total distribution be brought up to 29 p.c., a buyer at the current price would obtain the attractive yield of £4 18s. 3d. p.c. The units were as high as 124s. this year.

Some investors are partial to low-price shares, and Pye (Ireland) 5s. Ordinary is one of several which merit attention. The company has quite a good dividend record. For the past four years dividends have been 7½ p.c., while net profits, after tax, have been in the region of £3,000. A new item in the last balance sheet was £9,105 for expenditure on Dundrum premises. The shares usually have a free market. Present price is around 6s. The annual meeting takes place in the Shelbourne Hotel to-day.

Many Important Dividends

ANOTHER important engineering and shipbuilding company, Swan Hunter and Wigham Richardson, announced its final dividend for the year to December 31 last yesterday. The payment is to be 6 per cent. again, making a total of 10 per cent. for the year.

This week has been particularly prolific in good dividend announcements. Several important companies, with millions of capital, have recorded increased profits and the maintenance of dividends. They cover a wide range of industries, and their success in maintaining their position emphasises the fact that, despite the strain and stress of war, the economic organisation of the country is still working.

Here, for instance, are five companies which have maintained their dividends and have their attractions as investments:—

Vickers, Ltd.—Profits increased by £56,695 to £962,000. Dividend 10 p.c. Price of 10/- units 19/4½. Yield £5 3/3 p.c.

British Aluminium—Profits £419,869, an increase of £52,537. Dividend 10 p.c. Price of £1 units 49/6. Yield £4 0/10 p.c.

International Paint and Compositions—Profits increased by £29,155 to £243,336. Dividend 20 p.c. Price 110/-. Yield £3 12/9 p.c.

Gallaher, Ltd. — Profits rose by £14,317 to £818,338. Dividend 27½ p.c. Price of £1 shares £6½. Yield £4 9/7 p.c.

Hugon and Co.—Profits £58,922, a rise of £5,601. Dividend 15 p.c. Price 58/-. Yield £5 3/5 p.c.

Such companies as these are ministering to both services and civilian needs, and their products should be in as great request in the days of reconstruction as they are now.

Mappin and Webb, Ltd., the London Jewellers, is again paying 8 p.c. on its Ordinary shares. Net profit amounted to £47,024 (against £45,331). The company has fully maintained its position during the war, although the resources of its factories have been more and more devoted to the production of goods necessary to the war effort than for the domestic markets. Trading profits at £185,729 were a record. The 10/- units are around 15/-.

A slight increase in profits is announced by Thos. Firth and John Brown, the net amount for 1942 being given at £311,357, compared with £307,236 for the previous year. Dividend on Ord. shares is again 10 p.c., free of tax, with a final of 5½ p.c.

Sir Louis Sterling, chairman and managing director of A. C. Cossor, Ltd., said yesterday that he had only learned on Tuesday that, without any disclosure to himself, one of the directors of the company, Mr. T. A. MacAuley, has been negotiating with another radio company with a view to amalgamation.

This follows his statement of last week that he had no knowledge of any negotiations between A. C. Cossor, Ltd., and any other radio concern.

Market rumours have recently been to the effect that merger negotiations have been in progress between A. C. Cossor and Electrical and Musical Industries or between A. C. Cossor and Philco Radio and Television.

COMPANY NEWS

Canadian Celanese.—Net profit for 1942 1,624,929 dollars (against 1,853,040 dollars). Dividends on the Common were 2 dollars per share (same). Earned surplus amounted to 3,701,323 dollars, compared with 3,398,745 dollars.

London and District Cinemas have prepared a scheme of arrangement providing for the payment of all Debenture arrears and the cancellation of £30,000 of stock held by the company's nominees. It is proposed that the company be released from sinking fund obligations in respect of 1939 to 1942, and that future annual instalments be reduced from £2,400 to £1,620.

There has been a good demand for G.N.R. issues, particularly the Preference, which is being bought with a view to capital appreciation and dividends.

Guinness £1 Ordinary units, invariably regarded as one of the market leaders, have slipped back to 118s. for no apparent reason. The current year's interim dividend has been maintained at 11 p.c., and, should the year's total distribution be brought up to 29 p.c., a buyer at the current price would obtain the attractive yield of £4 18s. 3d. p.c. The units were as high as 124s. this year.

Some investors are partial to low-price shares, and Pye (Ireland) 5s. Ordinary is one of several which merit attention. The company has quite a good dividend record. For the past four years dividends have been 7½ p.c., while net profits, after tax, have been in the region of £3,000. A new item in the last balance sheet was £9,105 for expenditure on Dundrum premises. The shares usually have a free market. Present price is around 6s. The annual meeting takes place in the Shelbourne Hotel to-day.

THEATRE ROYAL APPOINTMENT

Mr. John Lyons, publicity manager of Irish Cinemas, Ltd., has been appointed to the new post of assistant manager of the Theatre Royal, Dublin. Mr. Lyons recently attained the distinction of being the first person in Europe to receive the M.G.M. Honour Roll Button for outstanding exploitation. He is well-known in Dublin publicity circles, and is a member of the Publicity Club. Mr. Lyons will continue his publicity work for the Theatre Royal and Regal Rooms Cinema, as well as assisting the manager of the Theatre Royal, Mr. Max Elliman, who has now quite recovered from his recent illness.

BANK OFFICIALS' SALARY DEMAND

Condemnation of the Orders restricting increases in salaries and wages and a demand that they should be withdrawn were contained in a resolution from the Drogheda sector, which was passed at the annual meeting of the Irish Bank Officials' Association, held in the Royal Hibernian Hotel yesterday. Mr. T. H. Daly, of the Ulster Bank, Belfast, was appointed President for the year.

MASS IN DISTILLERY

Next Sunday Mass will be celebrated in a Dublin distillery, which for some time past has been the parading grounds of the L.D.F. The Mass will be heard by members of the 42nd Dublin Rifle Battalion L.D.F. before they go on a recruiting march through the city. Before it is celebrated the distillery will be blessed.

The parade will be headed by the battalion band, which is composed entirely of men of the unit, and is probably the first L.D.F. band in the country.

THE LATE MR. J. MONTGOMERY

The names of Mr. and Mrs. F. McDonnell were omitted from the list of those who attended the funeral of Mr. J. Montgomery, Film Censor.

Tunisia

When British and American troops invaded Algeria and Morocco some months ago, at a time when Marshal Rommel's Afrikakorps was retreating rapidly across the Western desert towards Tunisia, there was general hope in the Allied countries that the Axis forces were about to be driven from North Africa. The Germans and Italians, however, acted with remarkable speed. Taking full advantage of their interior lines, they landed large numbers of troops in Tunisia, with the result that when the British and Americans arrived from Algeria they found the Axis armies consolidated in a powerful bridgehead. Since last November the Axis troops have been defying all Allied efforts to dislodge them. General von Arnim, the German leader, has been joined by the redoubtable Marshal Rommel, who contrived to save a substantial portion of his Afrikakorps from destruction, and these two generals, realising the importance of the time factor to the Allies, have been giving an excellent account of themselves on the Tunisian front. Now, according to the German News Agency, the real test of their powers of resistance is at hand. At 10.30 p.m. on Tuesday the British Eighth Army, led by General Montgomery, launched an attack on the coastal end of the Mareth line; and, in the opinion of military experts in Berlin, this movement is likely to develop into a major attack. It was opened by a lively artillery barrage, recalling the preliminary stages of General Montgomery's offensive at El Alamein. The German commentators state that the situation at the moment is fluid; but warn the people that "heavy fighting" must be expected. As we write, there is very little news from British or American sources. The Axis forces south of Sfax, on the Tunisian coast, have been deprived temporarily of their supply line from the north, as a result of the cutting by Allied bombers of the railway line between Sfax and its terminus at Gabes. The Axis leaders also have been embarrassed by Allied attacks on their convoys across the Sicilian narrows; and it is reported that American troops are threatening the German and Italian grip on Gafsa.

For some little time past the weather in the north coastal belt of Tunisia has been exceedingly bad. Heavy rains have flooded the mountain roads, and in some places campaigning has been brought virtually to a standstill. On the other hand, General Montgomery, with his varied experience of desert warfare, undoubtedly knows his job, and is unlikely to have opened a full-dress offensive unless he is reasonably certain that his operations will not be hampered unduly by the weather. If it is true, as the Germans allege, that the new attack is on a major scale, interesting developments may be expected in North Africa within the next few weeks. It is difficult to estimate the full strength of the Axis forces in Tunisia. They are opposed by the British First and Eighth Armies, as well as by a strong force of Americans and a fairly formidable contingent of French troops under General Leclerc. On paper, the Allies would seem to have a substantial advantage in respect of numbers; but it would be unwise to draw too many conclusions from the fact of numerical superiority. The Axis forces in Tunisia are working on interior lines. They also can get supplies with comparative ease, whereas the Anglo-American Allies must run the gauntlet of the German U-boats, as well as of the Luftwaffe, before their troops can get a single bullet or a loaf of bread. It would be foolish, therefore, to speculate at this stage on the future course of events in Tunisia. The British Eighth Army undoubtedly is a magnificent fighting force, which has had invaluable experience of African fighting. It already has met, and defeated, Marshal Rommel's Afrikakorps on more than one occasion; but General Montgomery would be the last man to under-estimate the difficulties of the task which he has undertaken. The Germans and Italians realise that defeat in this battle almost indubitably would involve their expulsion from North Africa. For that reason they will fight fiercely in an effort to cause the greatest possible embarrassment to their opponents.

The Irish Language

Mr. de Valera's St. Patrick's Day broadcast was addressed to his own country, and not, as in so many previous years, to the United States. We wonder how his own country received it. The vogue of the "Celtic twilight" is said to have died in the flames of 1916; yet there is an "other-worldliness" about that broadcast which reveals that the ghost of the tradition continues to haunt the head of Ireland's Government in 1943. Approximately 95 per cent. of the world's land surface is at war. This nation is part of the exceptional five per cent.; but for the best part of four years past Minister after Minister has stressed the fact that it is confronted with problems hardly less grave, hardly less practical, hardly less worthy of the clearest, coldest attention than those which confront the belligerents themselves. Heaven knows, the Ministers are right. People are hungry who never were hungry before; much of the country's best blood is being drained; with or without reason, discontent grows. Yet this is the moment which the country's chief Minister chooses for an impassioned appeal on behalf of the Irish language. From men and women and children who are crying aloud for food he demands an additional effort to learn a language which is foreign to nine-tenths of them, in the name of a nebulous ideal. Surely the experience of the past twenty years has taught Mr. de Valera something. Millions of pounds have been spent on the enforcement of the Irish language; yet there is no more heart for it among the people at large now than there was then; there may be more people in possession of a smattering of the language, but there certainly are no more speakers of it. According to An Taoiseach, the last twenty years have gone for nothing. If, as he insists, the "national language is the chief mark of our distinct nationality," then our distinct nationality does not exist, and the fact that Ireland has contrived to retain her neutrality for more than three years in the greatest war in history proves nothing. Mr. de Valera's sense of proportion is not what it ought to be. The possession of a national language, distinct from that of all other nations, means nothing: if evidence is needed, it is furnished by the United States of America. For ourselves, we hate to see our country sacrificed before the idols of a dead doctrine. The spirit of Irish nationalism reached its peak among men who knew no Irish; it will be maintained by men who know no Irish—by men, however, who believe in freedom, who hate compulsion, who keep their eyes fixed not merely upon their small country, but upon the whole round world. We believe that the bulk of the people of the twenty-six counties possess a wider outlook than that for which the more doctrinaire among their rulers give them credit—or discredit. We believe that a plebiscite, unfettered by appeals to the romanticism of false history, would result in a heavy vote against the continuance not merely of compulsory Irish, but of the revival of the Irish language by any means. Thousands of men throughout the world are fighting and dying for causes in which they have faith—for country, for religion, for other real issues. Here alone the Prime Minister can plead for a dying unreality against the will of a people that is dying with it.

L.S.F. MOBILE CANTEEN

Over 250 members were served with tea immediately after a mobile canteen, under the auspices of the Ladies' Committee, was handed over yesterday in the grounds of Trinity College, Dublin, by Mr. W. S. Haughton to District Staff Officer A. S. Clarkin, of "B" District, L.S.F. The canteen was built by men of the District, L.S.F., on the premises of Messrs. Corrigan, coach builders, Camden street, Dublin, at a cost of only £45. After some members of "B" District, L.S.F., had attended Mass in St. Andrew's Church, Westland Row, and others attended a special Service in St. Mark's Church, the Rev. G. Turley, C.C., blessed the canteen in Westland Row, from which the groups marched to the College Park.

HELPING TO FEED EUROPE

At the luncheon given to leading citizens by the Lord Mayor of Cork yesterday, Mr. William Dwyer said he was recently told in England that it would take four years to feed Europe after the war. Could not they in Ireland start building up their agricultural industry now to help in supplying those needs, and thus not only to do a Christian act but also a very good business deal?

U.C.D. DANCE AND CEILIDHE

St. Patrick's Night was celebrated by the students of University College, Dublin, with two functions this year, instead of the usual ceilidhe.

Following the controversy which arose when the Students' Representative Council, deciding in the light of experience that the normal St. Patrick's Night ceilidhe would not obtain sufficient support to meet expenses, elected to hold an ordinary dance, with Irish and modern ballroom numbers side by side on the card, wide interest was taken in the event held in Dublin Castle, where members of the College Gaelic Society, granted the use of St. Patrick's Hall by the Taoiseach, held their own ceilidhe.

For the first time since the establishment of the State the sounds of Irish music and dancing echoed through the Castle buildings, and the beflagged, sword-hung hall of St. Patrick rang with applause for Mr. de Valera when he joined the dancers with several members of the Government and took part in the festivity, which was conducted entirely in Irish. Over two hundred and fifty couples—the majority of them wearing evening dress—splashed here and there with Army uniforms, an occasional many-hued kilt, and even a bawneen—conversed entirely in Irish, in accordance with the condition on which the use of the Hall was granted.

THE DANCE

Half-a-mile away, at 86 St. Stephen's Green, the Students' Representative Council were entertaining about a similar number of guests, the decision to hold a dance instead of a ceilidhe having proved extremely successful. In the result of the differences, the Council had a very successful function, the Gaelic Society were delighted with their Irish night in the Castle, and everyone was happy.

As well as the Taoiseach, the attendance in the Castle included:—Messrs. T. O'Derrig, Minister for Education; Dr. J. Ryan, Minister for Agriculture, and Mrs. Ryan; Mr. Frank Aiken, Minister for the Co-ordination of Defensive Measures; Mr. G. Boland, Minister for Justice; Mrs. Sean MacEntee, Col. O'Connor, Col. McKinney, Commdr. Morris, Prof. A. O'Farrelly, Prof. Dudley Edwards, the Rev. Mr. Deans, Dean of Residence, U.C.D.; An Seabhac agus a bean, Liam Gogan, S. O'Shea, Dr. O'Kelly, Dr. P. McCarville, Dr. T. de Bhaldraithe (M.C.), S. O Cleirigh, P. S. O hEigeartaigh agus a bean, Dr. Sean Lavin.

At St. Stehhen's Green the gathering included: — Professor Bayley Butler (representing Dr. A. W. Conway, President of the College), Professor and Mrs. J. J. Hogan, Professor and Mrs. J. J. Larchet, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Roche, Dr. P. G. Gormley, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Nevin, Surgeon C. J Macauley, Mr J. R. Timoney, Mr. P. F Donovan, Mr. P. O'Connell (representing Mr. A. O'Connell, Secretary of the College), Fr. O'Higgins, and Fr. McKernan, Deans of Residence.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

DEVON is the largest county in England with a single administration, seven districts, and 8,000 farms under fifty acres; Cornwall has nine areas and 7,000 farms less than fifty acres. These two counties, like most of the West country, are devoted to dairy farming and dairy produce—especially milk—a system of farming that for years has been based on a good supply of grass and unlimited imported feeding stuffs. With the war came the necessity of transforming West country grassland into ploughland, a terrible problem, which has been overcome successfully. Wheat acreage has been increased by four times, potatoes five times, and barley twice. The grass fields have become "land-ships," delivering feeding stuffs on the farm. Cornwall now boasts the largest arable acreage since 1865. Milk sales from farms have increased one quarter, and the greatest increase has been in winter milk.

Unhealthy Industry

It is likely that in the near future far-reaching developments in machine mining and a complete change in methods of work in the coal mines will be brought about. As a result, mining should be made safer and the accident rate diminished. In the U.S.A., where improved methods are in vogue, the accident rate is lower than in Great Britain. Speed of extraction and speed of abandonment of the worked out areas form the keynote of success in mining operations. At present only about one in four of mine employés here are actually engaged in coal production, the other three being employed as on cost or on dead work. The new methods should make a great improvement in this respect.

Plastics No Panacea

Mr. C. Chapman, past president of the London Institute of Plastics, speaking as one who made his livelihood in plastics, declares the current impression, that now we have plastics, everything in the garden is lovely, is quite erroneous. He wishes to correct this idea about plastics for houses. There are not enough plastics in the whole world to make 50,000 houses a year. From 100 tons of coal, when used in a gas works, one only got 100 lb. of moulding powder. Plastics, said Mr. Chapman, have two distinct uses—for utility and for decorative purposes. The tensile strength of plastics was at least equal to that of aluminium and half its weight, but glass, steel, wood and porcelain all had their place, and there was no likelihood that they will be outmoded by plastics.

Substitute Linoleum

As the Board of Trade has banned the use of cork or canvas in linoleum, the manufacturers have had to produce an attractive-looking, reasonably priced and good wearing substitute. There are various qualities of this new linoleum, but they average about 6s. a square yard. Some of them have no protective back; others are backed with felt, but in appearance they are pleasing, and, in many cases, look very little different from the pre-war article. Some retailers are selling the new "linoleum" on a priority basis, similar to the sale by permit of utility furniture, but, unlike the furniture, not free of purchase tax.

Sacking The Bag

"We should never again need to import such large quantities of concentrated feeding stuffs," says the recent report on post war agricultural policy, issued by the Royal Agricultural Society of England. Most farmers now realise that the system of "bag feeding," so common before the war, was the cause of much land going out of cultivation and a general lack of knowledge of arable farming. Helped by modern scientific knowledge, mechanical power and improved implements, the present output of the soil can not only be maintained, but it can be increased, provided every effort is made to produce the necessary amount of organic manure to keep the land, in conjunction with chemical fertilisers, at a high standard of productivity.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

The Trinity Seats

I have been making some inquiries about the voting register for the Trinity College seats in the Senate, and I have discovered a few—in my opinion—unsatisfactory features. Let me hasten to add that they are the fault of the law governing the seats, and not of the college.

First of all, any graduate who had his degree conferred later than November, 1942, will not be on the June register, upon which the election will certainly be run. This means that the last group of moderators, who took their examination in October and did not get their degrees till December in the normal way, will be unable to vote at this election. So will those scholars over 21 who had not the forethought to apply for a vote before November.

Secondly, graduates who did not go on the register when the university representatives were in the Dail, as they preferred to exercise their vote at home, are now entitled to a vote for the Senate without sacrificing their Dail vote, but are not on the register unless they applied to be restored to it before November.

I cannot see why registration for a vote should not be automatic, instead of depending on an application, and why the application should have to be made over six months before the register is published.

Portmarnock

What a calamity might have befallen Irish golf but for the Portmarnock Club's being blessed by so many loyal and steadfast old members, writes J.P.R. But for their staunch loyalty and financial support when it was so much needed, the club would probably now be in sore straits.

Many members when the motor cars were put off the roads cleared out their lockers, packed up, bade adieu to the massive links and flocked to more convenient clubs. The position became alarming; but there was on the membership roll a band of genuine Portmarnock men who resolved that the blue and gold never would disappear from the flagstaff.

Circumstances have prevented many from visiting the club as often as formerly, but their annual subscriptions continue to come in, though they now are members of other clubs. When an appeal for a reserve fund was made they, with those who remained as regular playing members, supported it, with the result that over £800 was subscribed "in no time."

Club Loyalty

Last year was not a good one; but despite the deficit the club still is in a strong financial condition, and will remain so until the cars return and the 'bus services improve.

One member, although now a non-playing one, last year put down £50, and is good for a similar sum this year. As long as such loyalty exists there is no danger ahead. As a matter of fact, during the week-ends the number of luncheons touch the seventy and eighty mark.

Captain Charles Robertson has been succeeded by Dr. M. H. O'Connor, a former member of Hermitage and Milltown, and the new members of the committee are: Dr. A. H. Davidson, Mr. T. A. Bolger, a former captain of Enniscorthy Club; Mr. J. A. Costelloe, T.D., a former Attorney-General and member of Milltown; Mr. C. S. Barrett, and Mr. "Eddie" Spratt, also one of the live wires of Royal Dublin.

Realism

During manœuvres in the Midlands, an old woman was told by an Army officer that she could not cross a bridge as it had been "blown up." Uncomprehending, she was adamant that it still existed, and, seeing a private lying in a ditch whom she thought might be "all there," she approached him and inquired "What's wrong with that bridge."

Receiving the answer: "I have been dead for days. How should I know!" She is said to have reported to the Guards that some Mental Hospital patients had made their escape.

FAT GOES

Perhaps you have exercised and experimented with your food and learned some of the ill-effects. Now try an easy, pleasant way. That way is 'Marmola' brand Antifat Tablets. It acts to correct the cause. People have used it for 35 years, so the place it holds has been secured by countless demonstrations.
The use of 'Marmola' requires no abnormal exercise or going without food. One simply takes four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Each tablet contains in exactly the right quantity a world-famous corrective for obesity. Ask your own friends what 'Marmola' did for them.
You should try 'Marmola' in justice to yourself. Watch the reduction, watch the new vitality that comes. Sold by all chemists at 3/- per box.

Fassett & Johnson (Ireland), Ltd. (Dept. 42), 43/46 Great Strand St., Dublin.

Mother! Give Constipated Child 'California Syrup of Figs'

Children love the pleasant taste of 'California Syrup of Figs' brand laxative, and gladly take it even when bilious, feverish, sick or constipated. No other laxative regulates the tender little bowels so nicely. It sweetens the stomach and stimulates the liver and bowels without cramping or over-acting. Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative.

Tell your chemist you want 'California Syrup of Figs,' which has full directions for babies and children of all ages. Prices 1/3 and 2/6. Mother, you must say 'CALIFORNIA.'

AM I USING MY POND'S POWDER CAREFULLY

To-day Pond's Powder is truly precious. You should not waste an atom. By using the economy hints below you will find your powder will last much longer.

KEEP THESE ECONOMY HINTS

Economise in the use of your powder by using less Pond's Vanishing Cream. Apply the cream sparingly with the tip of the little finger. Apply it only to the bridge of the nose, cheek-bone, curve of the brow and between the eyebrows. Let it dry for two or three minutes and then powder. The more cream you use the more powder is necessary.

Make up properly once, or at the most, twice a day. This will eliminate the necessity for frequent "first aid" treatment. Remember Pond's will "stay put" through the longest day for used with Pond's Vanishing Cream you have the perfect powder with the perfect base.

Use a soft puff and lightly dust powder all over the face. Don't dab. Small hard pads are wasteful and do not give a fine smooth powdered surface.

A WORLD OF DIFFERENCE IN EC

GAFSA ADVAN NEW THREAT ROMMEL'S AR

MARSHAL ROMMEL'S main force b Mareth Line is facing a new threat fr troops pushing south-east from Gafsa, which tured by the Americans on Wednesday with opposition—according to one account witho of a single soldier.

While Berlin claims a German break-t Wednesday's fighting west of Sedjenan Tunisia, British reports announce that the p been restored by strong counter-attacks.

German Radio yesterday stated tha Montgomery's Mareth Line attack now a have been no more than a local operation.- and Associated Press.)

Forward units of the American force which captured Gafsa now are feeling their way forward towards El Guettar, 12 miles to the south-east. They are on the heels of the Germans, who are retreating in the general direction of Gabes, 55 miles beyond, and some miles in the rear of the Mareth Line.

South of the Mareth Line, where General Eisenhower reported to-day that the Eighth Army had improved its positions, front line despatches tell of only active patrolling in the past 24 hours.

In the North Tunisian coastal sector troops of the British First Army are battling against new thrusts between Sedjenane and Tamara. Strong British counter-attacks restored the position after the Germans had made some headway west of Sedjenane.

Americans, pushing on beyond Gafsa, have now occupied Lala, at the south-eastern edge of the town, and the Djebel Rekaiz Hill, six miles farther on, at El Guettar, two roads to the coast fork. One runs north-east to Mehares, the other to Gabes. The Germans have thoroughly covered their retreat by laying thousands of mines and booby traps, which sappers are working night and day to clear.

As a prelude to the advance from Feriana, Allied bombers attacked Axis troops in the Gafsa area. Behind the bombers came Allied fighter formations, which shot up Marshal Rommel's transport evacuating Gafsa. The fighters riddled the Axis vehicles with cannon and machine-gun fire, scoring hits on four tanks and two armoured cars. Motor lorries, crammed with troops, were sent swaying from the road as fighters put them out of action. A number of Axis gun positions were also silenced.

INTRUDER SORTIES

Very little information has yet reached Allied Headquarters regarding the Eighth Army move, which gained some ground on the northern sector of the Mareth front, but there has been little more than normal patrol activities.

In Northern Tunisia, General von Arnim is persistently trying to outflank the Allied troops in the Beja area. He has thrown two battalions into his renewed drive from Sedjenane towards Tamera. His immediate objective is Djebel Abiod, six miles behind the British positions at Tamera, where a road cuts south from the Tabarka-Mateur highway towards Beja.

After gaining some ground, the German forces were pushed back by General Anderson's First Army.

Over this battlefield Spitfires are sweeping behind the Axis lines in offensive sorties without meeting much opposition. Only on one occasion in the past twenty-four hours has it been possible to bring an enemy formation to combat.—(Reuter.)

GERMAN REPORT

Commenting on the fighting west of Sedjenane, the German News Agency said that Wednesday's German attack took the form of a "surprise thrust," which forced a break-through to the west in considerable weight. It was claimed that lorry-borne British reserves were unable to sto "Nor could the B whose fire passed tions, stop them bombers and battle supporting the attac heavy casualties o Considerable gains Djebel Abiod, and many prisoners w (Reuter.)
